"How Sleep the Brave—"

Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Westgate of Bow City received a letter from their son, Charlie, who was killed in action Oct. 1st., written by him Sept. 13th., just as he was returning from leave to the big drive, extracts from which are published below. Two other letters from comrades in arms are self explanatory.

o o o

"Eve—Arrived up with the company again. Its pretty decent to be back again, and yet its really lonely in a way. My really best pals are gone—must stick it, though.

Have about fifteen of your letters to answer, they accumulated at my absence on leave. Wrote ever so many post cards so you would know I was safely out of the heavy fighting of early September. Missed it, and was lucky, too—cos it was tough. Quite a few of our fellows got knocked out—my best pals amongst them. Its awful; and yet we must go on, even to pay the supreme sacrifice ourselves, because we must end this thing and there must be only one end.

"Yes, Dad, that is one of the sad things about this all. So many of the boys will have forever indelibly stamped on their faces the lives they have lived here, and of course can never be the valuable citizens they would have been had they lived the right life thru it all. Its a man's life alright, and makes a full grown man of anyone if they go straight."

o o o

France, Oct. 3rd., 1918.

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Westgate:—

I am trying my best to write you a few lines about your son, Charlie—he was killed in action on the 1st. of the 10th. of this year while going over the top with his Company. We had a pretty hot time of it. Charlie was killed by machine gun fire—he never suffered any pain at all, in fact the poor lad never knew what struck him.

Charlie was in my Company and was in my platoon while going into action. I was with him at the time of his death and stayed with him until his last—he passed away so sudden I could not get anything out of him. You may be sure, dear friends, he was like a brother to me.

I am going up to the battlefield today to fix his grave up and will send you more details later. I took his pay book and little things he had with him and will send them on by post as soon as I can get settled down a bit.

Well, dear friends, I must close these few sad lines for a job no one likes. Trusting I will hear from you, I remain,

Yours sincerely,
SGT. G. MORRISON.

Leicester, Eng., 25-10-18.

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Westgate:—

I am taking the liberty of writing, but I cannot help it. I am in hospital short of a foot, and I have just had a letter from one of the boys about your poor son, (God rest his soul!).

Agricultural Society Meeting

The annual general meeting of the members of the Lomond Agricultural Society will be held in the I.O.O.F. Hall, Lomond, on Saturday, Dec. 7th., at two o'clock in the afternoon. Election of officers for the ensuing year and general business considerations.

It is imperative that this organization be given good solid support for next year. Two years under a handicap has made it hard fighting for the directorate, but then the idea is worthy of support and will in time develop into a solid community institution. Keep this date in mind and bring a crowd with you.

I am just broken up about the news, I just cannot forget him. The night I was hit, 28th. Sept., he came to me—all he could say—"Poor Dick!" I knew what he meant. He knew of my wife and children and he was thinking of them.

We came from Canada at the same time. In England and France we were always in the same crowd. Many is the talk I have had with him—little confidential chats. His home was his shrine. I shall not forget his boyish enthusiasm when he would speak of his 'Dad' and his work. Such a good lad, clean, honest, God-fearing! Yes, the boy would have made his mark in the world, I am sure of it. Charlie was a man, through and through; a 'gem', clear as a crystal, pure as the whitest of whitest diamonds. "C'est la Guerre", the best are always taken away.

As a friend of your "poor son", will you please accept my sincere and whole-hearted sympathies.

Sincerely yours,
RICHARD MEYERS.

o o o

While there is no adequate recompense for the parents in the supreme sacrifice made by their son in what we believe to be a just cause, it is a comfort to know their son was a man in the sight of men. To no person can a higher tribute be paid.

NOTES

Don't wait until after the municipal elections to do your fault-finding. If you have a kick, exercise it at the public meeting Monday night. While the village business affairs are of small magnitude it is very important that they should be carefully managed. But to expect improvements is to expect taxation.

The above can be applied to the consolidated school and to the rural municipal politics.

What the Edmonton doctors think of the flu mask and what THE PRESS thinks of the manipulation of the Western Canada livestock market wouldn't look well in print.

Boost for the hospital.

Another year comes around and find the Lomond farmers unorganized and without representation at the U.F.A. convention. This will never do, boys, and you are the ones to suffer through this passive attitude. The U.F.A. merits more support than it receives. But, like all new reform movements, takes a long time to weather through inertia, tradition and prejudice.

It is a pleasure to note the slight revival of the old time Christmas spirit. The war thread of restraint has been snapped and we rejoice to pick up our former fancies. It is essentially a children's holiday, and we can't afford to deny them this bit of pleasure.

If the weed menace continues it will force the careful farmer into woven wire fencing for protection. We can't afford to grow weeds in a dry country.

We're not particular what is done to Kaiser Bill, but we feel certain somebody will hustle him into eternity before long.

What about a skating rink?

Notice!

A penalty of 5 per cent. will be added to all unpaid taxes due the Lomond Consolidated School District No. 20 if not paid on or before the 15th. day of December, 1918.

Two Incidents of War

Indicate Sharp Contrast

Between National Schools

SIR WALTER RALEIGH, the well-known Oxford scholar, recently published a book with the attractive title, "The Soul of England," and in it he included a little story which has just been used by Mr. H. A. L. Fisher, British Minister of Education, to show that we are fighting to defend a great civilization:

"A month before war broke out there was a German student in Oxford who attended a picture palace. It was crowded with young Englishmen, members of the university. Suddenly the Kaiser appeared on the film, and a young Englishman who was sitting behind the German made an insulting observation, whereupon the young German turned round and boxed the Englishman's ears. Upon that the whole theatre burst out into applause. The young Englishmen felt that this young German had been unfairly treated, that his Kaiser had been abused in his presence in rather an ungentlemanly manner. A German came to a friend of mine—his old tutor—afterwards and said: 'You are a wonderful people.' He told the story, and said: 'Such chivalry as that would have been quite incomprehensible in my country.' Well, that is really our civilization. That little story gives you the whole of our civilization. That chivalry is quite apparent in the private soldier and in the officer. It is apparent through the whole of English society, and I feel that so long as that spirit remains among us we can hold our heads high among the nations of the earth."

In striking contrast to this is a

Cheapness is not the Test of Value

Value is the test of cheapness. There is the story in a nutshell. When we bought our stocks of Mackinaw Coats, Underwear, Sweaters, Sox, Shirts and Clothing for men we might easily have bought to enable us to advertise more attractive prices. But seventeen years buying experience has taught us many things about the buying game. One result has been that we do not try and offer cheap goods at low prices. We simply refuse to touch cheap goods at all, as they do not give value at any price.

Under Our Right Selling Plan we can offer goods of real merit with the value evident to every man, at prices we are pleased to have you compare.

The Frank Brown Co.,

dramatic incident told by a sergeant of some recent fighting which brings out strongly the difference between the Briton and the German:

"I was lying wounded in a shallow trench, when I saw a German approach an English lad who was lying on the parapet, badly hit on the leg. He was unable to move, but the German deliberately bayoneted him through the body as he lay—a dastardly act. At that moment I noticed our young sergeant-major, who was standing some yards away from the two. I shall never forget his expression; he was convulsed with horror and loathing. He did not attempt to shoot or stab the enemy, but in a burst of ungovernable rage disdainfully dropped his rifle and leapt at the Hun—sprang at him like a bulldog. Before the foeman had time to realize what had happened, the young Englishman had him by the throat and literally choked the life out of him and then flung the body away. In my mind's eye even now I can see the dead German lying beside his poor victim, and in all my twenty months at the front never did I witness an incident so terrible, so dramatic, and yet so splendid."

A Valuable Gift.

The London Daily Express states that a magnificent collar, composed of 15 rows of the famous Vanderbilt pearls, connected by large diamonds and set in plaques, worth in all about $25,000, is the Duchess of Marlborough's gift to the children's jewel fund.

Three diamond tiaras already have been sent to the duchess for the fund, of which she is the treasurer. Every woman is asked to contribute one piece of jewelry to help establish child welfare and maternity centres, of which 5,000 more are needed in the United Kingdom.

New Scripture.

A story is going the rounds, in the north of England of a certain Lancashire battalion on the Cambrai front. The battalion was trudging back from the trenches, after being relieved, in the small hours of the morning. Suddenly it was confronted by an officer, who ordered it to halt and dig a support trench where it was. The battalion obeyed, of course, without a murmur, but, after a moment, there came a voice from the darkness: "In six days 't' Lord made 'eaven an' earth, and then, on the seventh, Lancashires' coom an' dup it all oop again."

LOCALS

The Clifton council meets on Monday, Dec. 9th. The Department of Municipal Affairs has deferred the date of the elections from December to February to give the public a chance to rally from the 'flu.

o o o

The 'flu is again subsiding. The Williamson family are quickly recovering, as are the Henson's and Mrs. Adams. Mr. Teskey and Willie fell heir to the malady this week, leaving their entire household helpless. Mr. Teskey's sister from Okotoks came down to tide them over. Mrs. Chas. Barnett is in a serious condition, a relapse of the 'flu developing into pneumonia. The air is sufficiently clear to allow the Lomond schools to open on Monday, Dec. 2nd. —As we are a day late getting to press we include the sad news of Mrs. Barnett's demise. Funeral at the Lomond Church Mouday afternoon.

LOMOND DISTRICT

Howard Finley is again hauling Bow City coal after successfully combating the 'flu. He says that it is no joke, and we are inclined to believe him.

o o o

We are sorry to hear that Mrs. Bell is seriously ill in Winnipeg, where she has been staying for some time. She is suffering from an internal growth.

o o o

Several complaints are at hand in connection with the uncompleted fence around the town cemetery. Cattle and horses are pasturing at will over this plot of land and spots that are held dear in the memory of those interested in the burying place are trampled by the marauders. Monuments and fences would be erected if the conditions were remedied. It is up to the town council to vote a small sum of money for a few rods of wire, and thus fulfil the first claims against it.

o o o

The great scarcity of feed in this district as well as in others, has brought the horse and cattle market down to a zero level.

o o o

A few sports tried to cross on the ice in Lake Macgregor. Their car took a plunge in the water, leaving the rear pointing skyward. Ice may be nice to motor on, but the lads got a tip that will be useful to them in the future.

o o o

Mrs. Clanfield is helping the Owen's family out during their sickness.

o o o

The recent fall of snow brought out some of the district hunters with their shotguns for a bit of rabbit.

o o o

Some of the farmers perhaps remember the first of December last year, when the first snow storm came and stayed. Prepare thou for what soon is to come and pick up everything around the barn yard that you wouldn't like to see under the snow this winter.

o o o

We have read oft-times of the limitations put on firewater during the war but the wee town of Lomond is said by other stations on the line to be, and is christened the terminus of, the whiskey bottle. The sleuths haven't got wise yet.

WHY DOES THE PUBLIC PREFER ADVERTISED GOODS ?

It is an established fact----so it must pay to advertise !

STANFIELD'S UNDERWEAR

We always recommend "STANFIELD'S UNSHRINKABLE UNDERWEAR." We like to sell it for the same reason that you like to buy it---because Stanfield's gives every satisfaction.
